INTRODUCTION.

THE following list is not intended to be a complete bibliography. The books selected are for the most part recent, inexpensive and accessible, together with such others as are indispensible to the adequate study of the subject.

Different standards have been adopted in the selection of books for different parts of the list. For instance, only a few of the best books on early and mediæval history are given; while, on the other hand, an attempt has been made to include every important book issued as part of the Socialist propaganda during recent years. With the exception of some American and Colonial books, only works published in the United Kingdom have been included, and the majority deal with English problems It has been impossible to find space even for representative specimens of those local records and reports which must be the chief sources of any thorough and original study of social history. A few periodical publications have been included; but magazine articles have not been mentioned, although much of the best results of modern controversy and enquiry is to be read only in that form.

Few public libraries yet contain all the books here mentioned; and all who desire to promote serious study of social subjects are urged to induce any libraries with which they are connected to obtain as many of them as possible.

The earlier editions of this list were prepared by Graham Wallas, Sidney Webb, Edward R. Pease and many others. The present edition is the work of Edward R. Pease, with advice from several specialists, and with general assistance from Sidney Webb and Mr. B. M. Headicar, the Librarian of the London School of Economics.

NOTE ON BIBLIOGRAPHIES.

FOR modern books quite the best subject-catalogues are Sonnenschein's "Best Books" (Routledge, 1910-12, in three parts, each 14s. net. Part I. deals with theology, mythology and philosophy; Part II. with sociology (including law and education) geography and history, etc.; Part III. with the sciences, the arts and trades, and literature and philology), and Nelson's "Standard Books." This work was published in 1912 in four volumes at a subscription price of 84s. It contains classified lists of the 10,000 best books in every department of literature, with an index to authors and subjects, containing 50,000 references. Each of the above works contains full annotations. An invaluable work is the "Subject index of the modern works added to the Library of the British Museum in the years 1881-1900," edited by G. K. Fortescue, LL.D., published for the British Museum by Longmans and Quaritch in three volumes (1902-3) at 10s. per vol. The same for the years 1901-5 in 1 vol. (1906, 40s.), 1906-10, in 1 vol. (1911, 40s.), 1911-15, in 1 vol. (1918, 63s.). Messrs. A. & C. Black also published in 1912 "Books that Count," a dictionary of about 5,500 standard books in one volume, price 5s. Each number of the Athenæum, (weekly, 6d.) contains an annotated list of new publications prepared by the Library Association.

For old books the reader should consult Watts' "Bibliotheca Britannica," o.p., which gives English books published before 1824, under subjects and under authors. Many articles in the "Encyclopædia Britannica," Nelson's "Encyclopædia," the "Dictionary of National Biography" (Smith Elder), the "Labour Year Book," 1916, and the "Dictionary of Political Economy" (Macmillan), have short but well-chosen bibliographies appended to them. The twelve volumes of the "Cambridge Modern History" contain extensive and valuable bibliographical lists, including works of all countries, and reference should also be made to Courtney's "Register of National Bibliography," 3 vols. (1905-12, Constable, 46s. 6d.)

For parliamentary papers consult the "Subject Catalogue," 1801-1900 (10s. 6d.) and 1901-10 (7s. 6d.), published by P. S. King and Son, and the subsequent lists issued monthly, in particular the "Monthly Circular" (1d.) of H.M. Stationery Office, which gives a complete list of all British parliamentary and official publications, with short reviews of the more important ones.

Every paper printed in any important magazine, from the beginning of the century to 1882, will be found catalogued under its subject, in Poole's "Index to Periodical Literature" (Kegan Paul, 73s. 6d. net). The following further Supplements can be obtained of Kegan Paul:—1882-86, 36s.; 1887-91, 40s. net; 1892-96, 50s. net; 1897-1902, 50s. net, and 1902-7, 50s. net. The method of reference, which is rather complicated. is explained in the introduction. The "Annual Literary Index," edited by W. L. Fletcher and R. R. Bowker (New York: Office of the Publishers' Circular) is an annual Supplement. The "Index and Guide to Periodicals," issued annually, 1890 to 1902, by the Review of Reviews, gives in each issue a complete index to contents of periodicals of the previous year, and Wilson's "Readers' Guide" and "Readers' Guide Supplement," issued monthly and in annual volumes, provide, alphabetically under subjects, an index to all the most important American, and many British periodicals. Palmer's "Index to the Times" (quarterly), and "The Times Index" (quarterly, £10 10s. a year), are the best guides to current events. The American Economic Review (published quarterly, $5 yearly, Princeton, N.J.) gives the most complete list of new economic books in all countries, as well as a full abstract of the articles in current economic periodicals throughout the world.

Dietrich's "Bibliographie der Deutschen Zeitschriften-Litteratur" is an annual index to German periodical literature; and Jordell's "Repertoire bibliographique des principales revues francaises" fulfils the same office for France.

The above bibliographies and catalogues are in the British Museum Reading-room, and in the British Library of Political Science.

When the books appearing in the following pages contain useful bibliographies this fact is usually mentioned. In some cases special bibliographies are given at the foot of the section.

A number of manuscript bibliographies and a large collection of official reports of all countries, and of specialist books and pamphlets (many of the latter now out of print) are open to readers in the British Library of Political Science at the London School of Economics, Clare Market, W.C.; which also publishes, in each number of its quarterly Bulletin (2s. per annum post free), bibliographies of current political and economic topics.

For books giving the Roman Catholic point of view on economic questions and social reform generally, "Books for Social Students," 32 pp. (Catholic Truth Society, 69 Southwark Bridge Road, S.E.), price 1d., will be found useful.

ERRATA.

It may be observed that recent books advertised by publishers under one title, are sometimes published under another, and the same is the case in the matter of price. Moreover, prices of books are constantly being altered by the publishers.

P. 4. Alben read Alden.

P. 14. KNOWLES, LILIAN. The economic development of the nineteenth century: read "Industrial and commercial revolutions in Great Britain during the nineteenth century."

P. 14. Porter, G. P., read G. R.
